

Jen Whalen

Jen and her husband, Tim, have been married since 2003. They share 2 beautiful teenage children; Timmy and Gracie. Jen grew up in the ministry and attended Zion Bible College (now Northpoint Bible College) earning her degree in Church Ministries with an emphasis on Christian Education. She has served in the roles of Children's Pastor, Christian Education Director, Girls Ministries Sponsor and has been involved in children's ministries for most of her life.

Throughout her years in ministry, Jen has enjoyed mentoring leaders. Her vision has always been to raise up a generation of leaders who know who they are in Christ, can confidently operate in their giftings, and allow God to work through them to effectively reach this world for Jesus Christ. In addition to working in children's ministries, she is professional interpreter for the Deaf and has been involved in Deaf Ministries for more than 20 years. Jen now serves as the Leadership Development Coordinator for National Girls Ministries.

Jen LOVES the Titus 2 principle of Girls Ministries – women mentoring girls. She has a heart to train leaders to become all that God has called them to be. She wants girls to be deeply rooted in their relationship with Jesus and for them to be a powerhouse for the Lord by answering His call on their lives.
